

A Little More, Grape, Capt. Bragg.

The election of Gen. Williams to the United States Senate from Kentucky, and Hon. Geo. H. Pendleton from Ohio, clearly indicate the moving of the masses in favor of the repeal of the Resumption act and their confidence in greenbacks. These measures are the result of the wisest reflection upon the condition of the financial affairs of the country, and the coming disasters that must ensue without the speediest relief. The future is big with the deepest and gloomiest distress—broken banks, bankrupt merchants, tax-ridden and oppressed people, and financially a ruined Government. No possible contingency, but the resolute determination of an outspoken people forcing their representatives in Congress to adopt and carry out the will of three-fourths of the American people, will save them from the grinding, impoverishing oppression of the money kings, who grow fat while the working men grow lean, whose heaven-hated extortion sinks patriotism into their purses, makes a wreck of industry and a vile despotism of country. We hail with pleasure the coming of Williams and Pendleton, bright lights breaking through the dark curtain of night and lighting the pathway to fairer prospects for the future. They will be heard in the Senate. Pendleton is a match for any man in it, and old "Coco" Gordon, who never was known to flinch; the old care-worn veteran of two wars, with talents and courage, will eloquently deliver the message of the people of old Kentucky to the Senate.

Our County Clerk's Office.

No county in this State, or perhaps any other State, can boast of a better clerk than Ohio county has in the person of Capt. Sam. K. Cox. He has the office arranged in the most thorough, systematic order so that any paper, order, suit or record, can be found in a very short time. He has each class of records labeled and numbered, from the commencement of the office down to the present. Within the last year he has purchased and fixed drawers or boxes for all the papers and properly classified and labeled them, and arranged everything and cross-indexed all the records at an expense of $120.50, besides his own labor, and it took him three months hard work to do all this. All this he donated to the county. This is a liberality unequalled by any county official heretofore.

Our Court of Claims thought as we do, and by a unanimous vote (all the Magistrates being present) passed the order which is published elsewhere in this issue.

We do not hesitate to say that our county clerk's office is in a more satisfactory, convenient, shape, and more systematically arranged than any office of the kind we ever in, and we have been in a great many.

Gen. John S. Williams.

As our readers are probably aware, the force Senatorial contest ended last week in the nomination in caucus on Wednesday night of the gentleman whose name heads this article. Gen. Williams is no ordinary man, and one proof of it (if all others fail), is his success over such men as Judge William Lindsay, Hon. J. Proctor Knott, Gov. J. M. McCrory, and others. He is a man of considerable military reputation, and also possesses scholarly attainments to a very high degree. It was evident from the start that he had a strong hold on the masses of the people, and in fact, we have reached the conclusion that he was the choice of a majority of the yeomanry of the State.

He is a fine political debater, and his speech here at our court-house in the great Presidential campaign of 1876, was universally pronounced the ablest effort made in the county during that memorable contest.

As a member of the Kentucky Legislature four years ago, he was bold, fearless, aggressive and enterprising, and we predict for him a bright Senatorial career.

We publish this week the report as affirmed by the County Judge of the Commissioners to district the county, reducing the Magistrates from twenty-two to twelve, and the Districts from eleven to six. This measure took its origin in the resolve to economize the expenses of the county and relieve it of the heavy debt that hung about it as a dark cloud, and stood in the way of any desire to improve with a proper degree of liberality.

We hope to furnish the HERALD to every family in the county, and if every friend will use a little diligence and forward us as many subscribers as possible, and the people will subscribe liberally, it will enable us to make the paper the very best home journal in the State, filled with the news of the County, State and Nation. Much is being developed in Congress as in the State legislature of the profoundest interest, and every citizen must be interested in the results which will follow the action of Editor. Your best interest is to have the HERALD at once. Send us your subscription and be informed, that you may be wise.

John Hilyard, of Mahoning county, was tried at South Carrollton on Tuesday of last week, charged with attempted rape on Miss Sue Miller, of McLean county, and was held to answer in bail of $100. He was defended by Eaves & Wing and S. P. Love, lawyers of Greenville.

Is there a Hell?

Henry Ward Beecher and other sensational preachers are pronouncing against the orthodox doctrine of hell. Well, now, we know they are wrong, for if there was no other need of such a place, the All-wise, who could foresee all things from the beginning, would have surely prepared such a place for the benefit of those who "dead-bust" printing offices out of their just dues.

While the Legislature is in session, had not a bill better be passed, making the legal rate of interest six per cent., or even less? A bill of this kind would reflect the wishes of a larger number of the law makers' constituents, than anything else that could be done. Why is it not done? The Senator or Representative who fails to do his duty in this matter, will be held to strict account by his constituents.

Hon. W. N. Sweeney, of Owensboro, called to see us last week. He is a candidate for Appellate Judge. He is an able lawyer, as well as an agreeable, accomplished gentleman. He is a strong, popular man, and received the high compliment of a unanimous call from the Owensboro bar. He would honor, rather than be honored, by the position. He has a host of friends in this county.—Madisonville Times.

We are pleased to see that Collector Stuart did not forget our people in his recent appointment of deputy Collectors. Three of our countymen receiving appointments: N. S. Roark, that of the Third Division, at Bowling Green; J. H. Reno, Fifth Division, at Greenville; Lawson Reno, Sixth Division, at Owensboro.—Greenville Echo.

We have added to our exchange list the Shelby Localizer—a new paper published in Shelbyville.

Has He Got That Ten Dollar Bill Yet?

Bill Hannibal, who lives in the Walton Creek neighborhood, went in the night for Dr. Taylor, who lives in what is known as the Point, to make a professional call to see a sick child. Dr. Taylor's bed-room was in the upper story of the house, and on hearing Hannibal's call, he raised a window and asked what was wanting. Hannibal told him "Who are you?" asked the doctor. "Bill Hannibal," answered the latter of the sick child. Now, Dr. Taylor, like all other good doctors, is always glad to take a five mile trip in the middle of the night—that is, if there is pay in prospect—but he didn't see it in this case, and, then, the weather is not very nice. It is known what or how many excuses he could have advanced—enough to say that he declined going. Hannibal insisted upon his going, and told him that he had a ten dollar bill at home, waiting for him if he would go. This changed the doctor's mind. He saw that the money was better than he had thought a moment before; and to tell the truth, he formed a letter opinion of Bill. He then departed his own words of a few moments ago, and said that he would go. He went; and he didn't care for the mud or the cool night, at all. After examining the child and doing out some medicine for it, the doctor waited for the promised ten dollar bill, but Bill did not mention it. The doctor bustled around like starlings but Bill was still silent about that bill. The doctor began to fear that Bill had no bill to pay his bill with. He put on his hat and gloves like he was going to be "off like a polecat," and Bill—not the ten dollar one—slid out of the house. It is thought that it was Bill's intention to stay from the house till the doctor left. After waiting awhile, the doctor went out to hunt bill and the ten dollars. Bill, who was watching the house, saw the doctor come out, and thinking he was "off for good," he, with a chuckle to himself, slipped back into the house; but the doctor was watching, and Bill was no sooner in the house than he "traveled the lion" in his den, and demanded his money. Bill was cornered; but he came out beautifully. He said he did not have the X right at home, but that it was at a neighbor's house some distance from there, and he would go right out and get it, if the doctor would wait for him to get back. The doctor insisted on going with him, but Bill opposed it. He yielded, however, and the two started off at two o'clock in the morning to get the money. Bill left the doctor sitting on his horse while he went to knock at the door. Bill had a strong desire to make a dash on the other side of the house, and did so. Dr. Taylor is still waiting for the ten dollar bill, though, as this happened three or four days ago, he is not sitting on his horse in the same place yet. This is true, except the names. They are partially fictitious.

Visitors from Richmond, Virginia.

We were called upon last Saturday by Mr. Jeremiah T. Jones, John T. Jones, (Sheriff of Henrico county), and Capt. Wm. McGraw, (Treasurer of Henrico county), all of Richmond, Va. They were accompanied by Col. D. L. Sublett, formerly superintendent of Taylor Coal company, Beaver Dam. The object of their visit here was prospecting for coal and coal lands. These gentlemen are men of ability, financially and of experience, in the coal mining business, and we hope they will locate in our midst. A more pleasant company of gentlemen it was never our good fortune to meet.

THE TALL SYCAMORE OF THE WARREN.

His Speech on the 15th inst. One of the Speeches Heard in the Senate.

For some time it had been announced that Hon. Dan. W. Voorhees, of Indiana, would make his maiden speech in the Senate, on the 15th inst. Something grand was expected, but he far surpassed anything expected by his warm admirers. His theme was "the financial questions now agitating the people all over the land." We have not space to give even a brief synopsis of his speech, but clip the following, which was the conclusion of his speech and embodies the sentiment thereof:

First—Those for whom I speak demand the restoration of the silver dollar as it stood before it was touched by the act of February, 1873. They desire that it shall have unlimited currency, not fearing that it will become too plenty for their wants; and that it be made a full legal tender, believing that it is as good now with which to pay all debts, public and private, as it was during eighty-one years of American history.

Second—They demand the repeal, unconditionally, of the act of January 14, 1873, compelling a resumption of specie payments in January, 1875, holding that the question of a return to a specie basis for our currency should be controlled entirely by the business interests of the country. They do not believe that the country should be dragged through the depths of ruin, wretchedness and degradation in order to reach a gold standard for the benefit alone of the money classes.

Third—They demand that the national banking system be removed and a circulating medium provided by the Government for the people, without taxing them for the privilege of obtaining it. And they ask that the amount thus placed in circulation shall bear a reasonable and judicious proportion to the business transactions and the population of the United States.

Fourth—They demand that the currency circulated on the authority of the Government, shall be made a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, including all dues to the Government, well knowing that it will then be at a par with gold, or more likely at a premium over it.

And fifth, they demand that hereafter the financial policy of the country be framed permanently in their interest; that they shall not be discriminated against in future legislation as in the past, and that their prosperity, not the mere growth of incomes to retire capitalists, shall be the primary duty of the Government.

In my judgment, these demands are just and moderate. I implore Senators not to suppose that they are disregarded with safety. If they are rejected now, they will be renewed hereafter with still greater determination, and perhaps with others added. I plead for the financial credit of the Government. It rests on the popular will alone, and that will can no longer be defied or menaced with impunity. The people are sovereign, and they can bind and they can loosen. If the money power is advised with wisdom it will stop and retrace its steps. It confronts a power now mightier than itself—a free people at the ballot-box, inflamed by a sense of injustice and oppression. If, however, it is joined to its golden idol; if its heart is hardened and its neck is stiffened by its vast possessions; if the burning lust of avarice has made it deaf to the voice of reason and blind to all human experience, it will push on in its career until it works its own destruction; for, sooner or later, the people, irrespective of party names, will unite in their own defence and establish justice.

They have been slow to believe that there was a deliberate purpose to degrade and impoverish the great producing classes, but they are being rapidly educated now. The condition of the country is a teacher whose awful lesson is engraved on their hearts. They have also recently read the proclamations of the great organs of the money power, removing all disguise as to the meaning of our financial legislation and the misery it has created. In the columns of one they have read that—

"The American laborer must make up his mind henceforth not to be so much better off than the European laborer. Men must be content to work for low wages. * * * In this way the workman will be nearer to that station in life to which it has pleased God to call him."

In the columns of another organ of consolidated capital they have read the following revolting sentiments: "There seems to be but one remedy. It is a change of the ownership of the soil, and the creation of a class of land owners on the one hand and of tenant-farmers on the other; something similar in both cases to what has long existed and now exists in the older countries of Europe."

And in every form in which the English language can be used the American people, and especially the people of the West, have been notified, not that their consent will be asked, but that they will be compelled to submit to the legislation which results in this system of baronial landed estates, a dependent tenantry and pauper wages for the workmen. Sir, I have no word of menace to utter on this floor, but, in behalf of every laborer and owner of the soil whom I represent, I warn all such as value their investments that when these doctrines of despotism are sought to be enforced this fair land will again be convulsed in agony and the fires of liberty will blaze forth again, as they did a hundred years ago, in defense of the national rights of man. May the wisdom of our fathers and the benignity of our God avert such an issue; but if it shall come, if infatuation has seized our councils, the result will only add one more instance to the long catalogue of human crimes and follies, where avarice, like ambition, overleaps itself and in its insubly attempt to rob other possessions, loses its own.

Rosine is putting on airs and wants to be an incorporated burg. Correct. How are you Judge Cox.

A Premium Fair at Hartford.

Col. John P. Barrett, editor and publisher of the Hartford, Ky. Herald, with his usual enterprise, has appointed a day on which he will distribute over one hundred dollars in gold to farmers who may be awarded premiums for the best agricultural products. The fair will be held at the Court House in Hartford, on Friday, February 1st, 1878.

To add interest to the occasion, Col. Barrett has invited several persons to deliver suitable addresses, among others he has invited the editor of The Farmers' Home Journal to deliver a lecture on agricultural subjects. The invitation has been accepted, and we expect to be on hand at the appointed time.—(Farmers' Home Journal.)

The enterprising Hartford Herald has resumed specie payment, and deposited $105 in gold to pay the premiums awarded at its coming corn and tobacco fair.—(Owensboro Messenger.)

The enterprising editor of the Hartford Herald, John P. Barrett, Esq., will hold a premium fair on the 1st day of February next, at which $105 in premiums will be distributed among the farmers of Ohio county. Everybody is expected at Hartford on that occasion.—(Owensboro Messenger.)

The editor of the Hartford Herald announces in his paper of the 9th inst. a list of enterprise which he terms "Our Premium Fair." The time for holding the fair is fixed for Friday, February 1st, at which the following liberal premiums will be awarded: Best 30 ears best corn, $20; second best, $5; best 30 ears best stock, $10; second best, $5; best 10 yards of cloth, $10; second best, $5; best 10 pounds of butter, $10; second best, $5. Any subscriber to the Herald in Davies county, who became such prior to August 1, 1877, and who has paid for the same, are entitled to compete for the premiums free of charge.—(Owensboro Examiner.)

Col. John P. Barrett, one of the most judicious and energetic of Kentucky newspaper men, will in the interest of his excellent paper, the Hartford Herald, hold a Premium Fair at the Court House, in Hartford, on Friday, February 1st, 1878. Subscribers to the Herald will find in this a rare opportunity to compete for $105 in the aggregate, to be awarded in sums from $5.00 to $20.00 for corn and tobacco. The premiums are to be paid in gold at that time. Letter from Washington.

WASHINGTON, Ohio County, January 21st, 1878.

Editor Herald.

We have been holding a revival meeting at this place for several days past. Seven have been converted, and the same number have joined the church. Our house is too small for the immense congregation which nightly comes from the east and the west, the north and the south, and sit down with "Abraham, Isaac and Jacob" in the Kingdom—also with John, Thomas, William, Joseph, Franklin, Henry, and I can't tell how many more. The altar place is still crowded with penitents seeking for pardon. Among the ministers present on yesterday (Sunday) were Revs. Barnett, of Bels, C. P. Church, J. A. Bennett, of Methodist Church, South, Stewart, of the Baptist denomination. Bro. Barnett preached a logical, pointed and effective sermon. The occasion was one of great interest. I have preached fifty sermons in seven weeks and made seventy-five pastoral calls, some of which are somewhat social as well as pastoral—frequently staying long enough to carry off some choice pieces of chicken and other good things. Washington, on the whole, is a splendid community. Please prepare me 100 Murphy badges and pledges, for we expect to close with a temperance meeting. Happiness and success to you. Yours, ever, J. T. PENNEN.

Letter from Rosine.

ROSEINE, January 18, 1878.

Feeling assured that your noble paper is one of the best circulating mediums in the Green River country; that it has ever been full of the richest bloomings of educational talent; and that a debt of gratitude is fast accumulating upon the readers of the Herald, we think they should speak in loud and unmistakable terms of its great success. Please find space in its worthy columns for a few matters pertaining to the interest of Rosine and vicinity. The general health of the country is good. Mr. L. H. Rains' health remains unchanged.

On the night of the 14th S. D. Morgan commenced a series of lectures on penmanship in the town of Rosine. He has a fine school and gives good evidence of his qualifications in the school-room. The citizens of Rosine held a meeting at the school-house January 16th, 1878, at 8 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of incorporating the said town, and recommending to Hon. Sam. E. Hill such persons as were chosen as officials of said town.

Some of Prof. W. B. Hayward's old pupils, John Martin, S. D. Morgan, S. D. Rains, D. T. Rains, together with the citizens of Rosine and vicinity, will meet at the school-house to-night for the purpose of organizing a debating club. They extend a hearty welcome to those wishing to participate with them.

The Rosine Mills are proving a success. The meal and flour manufactured at these mills are surpassed by none in the State. Yours, respectfully, V. B. RAINS.

Correction.

In our last issue a typographical error occurred in Prof. W. L. Hawkins' school advertisement. The types read: Second grade, $20.00, and it should have been only $12.00.

OUR PREMIUM FAIR.

We have determined to hold our Premium Fair at the Court House, in Hartford, on Friday, February 1st, 1878.

We have concluded to make a small change in the programme. The premiums are as follows:

- For the best 30 ears of Bread Corn..... $10.00
- For the best 30 ears of Stock Corn..... 5.00
- Second best..... 5.00
- Sweetpotatoes—For the best 20 ears of corn of its class, including all the samples entered, except those that take the first and second premiums in each case..... 10.00
- For the best ten pounds of Shipping or Steaming Leaf Tobacco..... 10.00
- Second best..... 5.00
- For best 10 pounds of Manufacturing Leaf Tobacco..... 10.00
- Second best..... 5.00
- For the best ten pounds of Cutting Leaf Tobacco..... 10.00
- Second best..... 5.00
- Sweetpotatoes—For the best 10 pounds of Tobacco of all the samples, except those having taken premiums, best tobacco of its class..... 20.00

The samples must all be of the crop of 1877, and produced by the person competing, or on his premises.

Any person who is a resident of Ohio adjoining counties, who was a subscriber to the Herald on or before first Monday in August, 1877, and who have paid up their subscription, are entitled to compete free of charge.

Your samples must be handed in to the Committee before ten o'clock of the day of Fair. The Committee will number each man's entry, and afterwards the Judges will make the awards, and no one will be permitted to enter the Court House except the Committee and the Judges, until the awards are made. The doors will be opened at 1 o'clock, p. m., and everybody present invited in, and a public lecture will be given by a competent personage on the agricultural interests of the day.

It has been noticed about by enemies of the paper and to myself that I was anxious for a large competition, and expected to keep all the samples entered, and thereby make money in the arrangement. I have no use for the samples for any individual profit. I expected, if left with me, to distribute the corn samples to the subscribers of the Herald for 1878, and the tobacco samples to the tobacco buyers of the county round about here, but say that any person who desires to do so can carry his samples away with him after the show is over. Let every body entitled to do so complete for these liberal premiums, which are all to be paid in gold, and it costs nothing but a little trouble to try it, and pays well whether you get a premium or not.

Respectfully,

JNO. P. BARRETT.
